COMETS SHADED 28-26 BY FORT WARREN SQUAD

Hondo Field's unpredictable Comets came close to pulling their game with the powerful Fort Warren, Wyo., Broncs out of the fire last Saturday at Omaha, threatening up to the last minute to change the final score—Fort Warren 28, Hondo 26.

Fort Warren early in the game made two quick scoring thrusts that caught the Comets off balance, but Hondo recovered, rallied and went on to almost overtake the Broncs.

Coach Bob Coe said he was well satisfied with the performance of his Comets in the light of the fact that the week before Fort Warren had held the mighty Minnesota eleven to two touchdowns.

A mental lapse in the last minutes of the game cost the Texans their chance for victory. On a fourth-down play from the Fort Warren 30, Hondo's brilliant halfback, Ivan Cunningham gambled on a long pass to Sam Laskin. Laskin ran into trouble on the 25 and tossed a lateral to Campbell McKellar, who was tackled on the 22. The play was called back and Fort Warren was given possession of the ball on the 35. The official ruling was an illegal man, a lineman, downfield on the pass.

Fort Warren's Brecunier made the Broncs' first touchdown in less than 10 minutes, and Ken Whitney made his first of three placements he kicked for extra points during the game.

Five minutes later Herald Milton recovered a Hondo fumble on the Hondo 23. Brecunier smashed through the line for the last 15 yards to pay dirt.

Fort Warren made it 21-0 midway
in the second quarter when Kenny Jastrow tossed a 30-yard pass to Gordon Bergh on the 5. Bergh wheeled away from two defenders and went over standing up.

It was Hondo from then on until half time, with the Comets taking to the air most of the time, and big Bill Huston and Cunningham sparking the attack in the backfield. A 25-yard pass play from Huston to Otto Schnellbacher, end, featured the attack from the Hondo 38. Huston tossed to Bud Albershinski on the 7. Campbell McKellar hit the line from the 1 yard stripe to score.

McKellar intercepted a Jastrow pass on the Fort Warren 43 three plays later, and Hondo again took to the air. The Comets worked to the 27, from where Cunningham, former SMU backfield ace, angled a toss into the end zone. Schnell-bacher, former Kansas U. standout, was on the spot and took the catch.
Fullback Charlie Goot, who later in the game suffered a broken leg, added the point, and it was Fort Warren 21, Hondo 13 at the half.

Hondo's third quarter score was in its growing stage when Cunningham quick-kicked from the Hondo 19 to the Fort Warren 38. Laskin intercepted Brecunier's pass on the Hondo 35, returning the ball to the 50. Cunningham again quick-kicked. On the first play, Brecunier fumbled and McGarry recovered on the 20. Cunningham passed to End Ed Sobczak for 8 yards to the 12, and then Cunningham, attempting to pass, found no receiver and ran the ball out of bounds on the 1 yard line.

Boner crashed the line to pay dirt.
Goot kicked the extra point.

Fort Warren scored its last touchdown in the fourth quarter from the Fort Warren 30 when Brecunier passed to Speedie in the end zone.

Hondo set the stage for its last tally when Laskin, in a sideline sleeper play, took a pass from Cunningham for 35 yards to make it first and 10 on the Fort Warren 20.
Cunningham skirted right end for 10 yards and then he rocketed a shot to Laskin in the end zone for the score. Hagan's try for the point was no good.

The Comets completed 11 of 25 passes for a total of 179 yards.

CAPT. F. W. KELLY RETURNS FLIGHT SURGEON

Capt. Frank W. Kelly has returned to HAAF as flight surgeon to succeed Maj. Casper J. Price and Capt. Morgan F. Taylor, who were separated from service at this station.

Capt. Kelly served as flight surgeon at HAAF for 15 months—August, 1942, to November, 1943.
Since then he has been at SAACC, Sikeston, Mo., Garden City, Kan., and Liberal, Kan.

Also reporting from Liberal were Lt. Louis R. Cohen, who has been assigned as hospital registrar, and Lt. Dorothy M. Reynolds. The hospital has another new nurse, Lt.
Kathryn Shaffer, who reported from Laughlin Field, Del Rio.

MANY AIR CADETS TO RECEIVE DISCHARGES

Approximately 30,000 aviation cadets and students who have not begun actual flight training have been offered the alternative of obtaining an immediate discharge from the Army or transferring to an enlisted status, according to a War Department announcement.

Also affected by the directive from Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the AAF, are approximately 4,000 cadets now in flight training or temporarily withdrawn from such instruction. Men in this category are being asked whether they wish to continue their training, apply for a discharge or revert to an enlisted status.

The new policy pertains only to those men who volunteered for cadet training from civilian life and who qualified for aircrew training in medical and psychological tests.

Men who have been eliminated from any phase of cadet training for a flying, academic or physical deficiency, or unsuitable habits or traits of character, are ineligible for the discharge option.

General Arnold's directive was prompted by the war's end and the subsequently lessened need for air-crew personnel.

Those electing to continue train-

CATHOLIC ACTION COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

The October meeting of the Castroville Deanery Catholic Action Council of Men was held in St. John the Evangelist parish hall at Hondo at 2:30 p. m., Sunday, October 14th, with a nice representation from the parish councils in the deanery present. Also present besides the Rev. erend Moderator, were Very Rev.
Dean J. Lenzen of Castroville and Rev. Emil Vinklerek of Hondo.

The meeting was called to order by William Ehlinger, president of the Deanery Council, who, in the absence of the Secretary appointed John C. Biediger to take the minutes of the meeting.

Clinton Jagge, president of the Hondo Council made the welcome address, after which Rev. John J.
Gerbermann, of D'Hanis, Moderator of the Deanery Council addressed the gathering on the Catholic Action program as outlined for this Fall and gave a short report of the accomplishments in the Deanery during the past months.

Very Rev. Dean J. Lenzen of Castroville also addressed the meeting in which he pointed out that each individual parish council has its own particular problems to work out and that in many instances it cannot be done right away and may take a year to accomplish. Father Lenzen also spoke on the Christian Doctrine program and pointed out that the big objective before this group of men is to continually strive to further Catholic education for our children.

The minutes of the last meeting held at Devine were read and approved.

The Reverend Moderator explained the various reports which should be made by the parish council representatives and asked that these reports be made regularly and promptly.

Reports were made by the following Deanery Representatives:
George Echtle on Ushers Club; J. L.
Biediger on Youth's Organizations;
M. M. Koch on Confraternity of Christian Doctrine; Hon. F. X.
Vance, War Coordinator, reported that Hondo is very active being the Air Field is located here. Mr. Vance asked all to give freely to the War Chest Drive now in progress. This last drive for the War Chest calls for $7,200.00 to be raised by Medina County of which $1,200.00 goes to the Boy Scouts. Joe Meyer, Holy Name Chairman, gave a nice report on the accomplishments made by the society in Hondo.

The time and place for the next Deanery Council meeting was left open and will be set by the Moderator and officers of the Council at a later date.

After adjournment all present were served a swell lunch and refreshments by the men of St. John's parish.

Medina County War Fund

The Medina County War Fund drive continues to roll along, but rather slowly. The quota for this county is $7,560, of which a portion will go to the Boy Scouts.

The importance of the continuation of the financial support of the people in this county is evidenced by the following quotation of Admiral Nimitz: "The islands of the Pacific are lonely and monotonous.
There is no Paris in the Pacific nor are there suitable billeting areas.
Our men are grateful for USO which offers relaxation and recreation. Until they come home, USO Camp Shows will continue to be a big event. I earnestly hope the American people will continue their financial support."

The responsibility for this drive is in the hands of everyone. Medina County did a good job last year. Let's continue this good work.

D'HANIS BOY SEES MUCH SERVICE

An Emergency Appeal

From Our Millions Still in Service

YES, the war is over . . . but not the work of several million G.I.'s!

Ask any soldier what "Occupation Duty" means—and he'll tell you it may be the most important job in the army right now, but one of the dreadiest ones.

He'll tell you the novelty wears off soon, being in a strange country among strange people. That the Main Drag in Tokyo or Berlin can't compare with Main Street in Topeka or Boston.

There are millions of boys thousands of miles from home who'd give anything to listen to an American song, hear American jokes, or talk to an American girl again.

That's why the U.S.O. cannot and must not quit. Your dollars must keep it going. For if ever those boys needed a lift and a laugh, they need it now!

The need is so urgent that General
Eisenhower asked U.S.O. Camp Shows to quadruple its activities after

V-E Day to take care of the boys in Europe. And similar entertainment plans have been made for our forces in Japan and throughout the lonely Pacific outposts.

But that's not all . . .

U.S.O. Camp Shows also entertain the troops in transit . . . at debarka-tion and separation centers. U.S.O.
Clubs and lounges in the States, Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippines, and many other bases, give the boys "a home away from home." Some 500 U.S.O. Clubs are located near military hospitals . . . and special Camp Shows tour the wards . . . to keep the wounded on the sunny side.

Yes, millions still in service are depending on YOU for a bit of cheer.
For a large part of every dollar you give to your local Community Com-paign goes to support the U.S.O.

The need is greater than ever. So try to give more than ever, won't you? Show the boys you haven't forgotten them!

SOLDIER WRITES OF PAST INCIDENTS
Mrs. Geo. H. Wiemers, of Hondo, recently received the following interesting letter from her son, T/Sgt. Milton C. Weimers, assigned to a Finance office somewhere in the Pacific:

Sunday, August 12th
Dear Mother:
It is Sunday nite, and while the rest of my tent mates are off to the show, I will try to write to you folks at home. I have been going to show a lot but I didn't feel like it, and I really think I have been going too much.

Well, I got up at about 7:30 this morning, ate breakfast, then back to the tent to shave and clean up to the tent a bit, and then to church. I heard a good sermon. I do think this Chaplain here is the best I have heard since overseas. He seems to be sincere and also he can get up there and preach instead of reading it. We have been having fairly good attendance all time, but this morning it was filled to capacity.

I will try to tell you a bit about the happening and incidents of the past few days. Last Friday night while most of the fellows were at the show, and some of us were at the tent reading or writing—suddenly a news broadcast came over the loud speaker announcing that the war was over, and then the show was over, and everybody was yelling, hollering and shouting, and I am sure they were so happy until there were tears in their eyes. Then, looking across to the harbor, the ships had all the lights on, the horns and whistles were going full blast, and the search lights were everywhere, flashing all over, and while doing so the lights formed a "V" in the sky and clouds. It is really hard to explain but I know it was the most wonderful sight I have ever seen. After that the lights were put on in the chapel across the street, and quite a few of us walked in and sat down to say a silent prayer.

After that most of us stayed up until the wee hours of the night awaiting further details regarding the surrender. Nothing additional came over that night. The next morning when we heard further news, everybody more or less dropped their heads and were sad, because the radio announced that the war is not over. The same day the radio announced that not to accept the surrender terms offered by the Japs. This of course peeved the soldiers very much, and I can't blame them for it. Now everyone is in better spirits again in as much as the allied nations did give them an ultimatum which I am sure they will accept, and which I think is right. So far we haven't heard anything more but it shouldn't be much longer before we hear that the war is over. Now a word or two as to when I might be on my way home. There isn't anything definite as yet, but it is the opinion of everyone that men with 85 points or more will be on their way home very soon. I personally think that I will be on my way home within two months, and hoping that it might even be sooner. I will tell you all more about it when I get home.

Mother, I believe this is about all the news for now. I hope everyone is well at home. I am feeling fine and hope I will be on my way home soon.
With Love,
Milton

CHARLES ETTER DIES IN SAN ANTONIO

Charles Etter, aged 80 years, 1 month and 27 days, a prominent resident of San Antonio, Texas, died at his home at 1:15 Saturday afternoon, October 13, 1945.

He was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Etter, deceased, born at Castroville, Texas, on August 16, 1865. When an infant of 2 months age his parents had him baptized on October 18, 1865 where he became a child of God. Here at Castroville, in the home of his parents he spent his childhood and school days attending school at Zion's Lutheran Church, and later when he reached confirmation age he was instructed in God's Holy Word and then confirmed on January 25, 1880. Mr. Etter remained true to his confirmation vow being a life long member of Zion's Lutheran Church. On February 22, 1904, he was married to Miss Mattie Turnage at Eagle Pass, Texas. They spent most of their happy married life at Castroville, Texas. Here they reared their family and shared life's joys and sorrows together, until about 8 years ago when they left Castroville and made their home in San Antonio, where he lived until his death.

God blessed his union with 9 children, 5 sons namely: Adolph, Alfred, Leonard and Kenneth, all of San Antonio, (one son died in infancy); four daughters, Mrs. Leon Iltis, Mrs. Roy Pierce, and Mrs. Robert Santee, of San Antonio, and Mrs. James Fillingier, of Pueblo, Colorado.

Mr. Etter enjoyed good health during his long life until 4 years ago when he began ailing with an incurable disease. All that medical skill could do, was gladly and willingly done. His wife and children nursed him very tenderly, but all to no avail. God called him out of this vale of suffering on Saturday at 1:15 P. M.

He leaves to mourn: his beloved wife, Mrs. Mattie Etter; the above mentioned 8 children, 3 daughters-in-law, 4 sons-in-law, 14 grandchildren; one brother, Mr. August Etter, Castroville; 2 sisters, Mrs. Mary Tondre, LaCoste, and Mrs. Emma Tondre, San Antonio, and a host of other relatives and warm friends.

Funeral services were held on Monday, October 15, 1945, beginning at 10 A. M. from the Castroville Lutheran Church with interment on the old Lutheran Cemetery at Castroville, Rev. A. H. Falkenberg officiating. Funeral arrangements were in charge of The Alamo Funeral Home, of San Antonio. The Lutheran Choir sang comforting hymns during the services. Pallbearers were: John Turnage, Fritz Tondre, Oscar Etter, Arnim Schneider, Arthur Kriewald and Chas. Halty. May he rest in peace.—AHF

ON THE U. S. S. GUAM

ON THE USS GUAM IN THE PACIFIC.—Two Hondo, Tex. Navy men, Gregorio E. Pedroza, electrician's mate, third class, USNR, and Robert Barrientes, 28, seaman, first class, USNR, served on this battle cruiser, flagship of Rear Admiral F. S. Low, USNR, when she led a task force of more than 50 ships into Jinsen, Korea, Sept. 8 to liberate the country from the Japs.

About 15,000 American sailors and soldiers streamed ashore to occupy the capital city of Keigo, 23 miles away, to the cheers of the natives. A crowd estimated at 100,000 gathered in the vicinity of the capital to watch the lowering of the Jap flag and the raising of the Stars and Stripes.

Thousands of American prisoners of war, many of them listed missing, were assembled, identified and headed for home.

Biry Home Demonstration Club

The Biry Home Demonstration Club held its regular meeting Oct. 10th at the home of Mrs. A. H. Bendle, with ten members and Mrs. Christine Mayberry being present.

Mrs. Mayberry put snaps on bill folds and purses, and also explained about the Bazaar and exhibit that is going to be held at the Hondo Navigation Village at Hondo Sat., Oct. 20th.

At about 4 o'clock the hostess served four kinds of home made cookies and coffee. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lee Wernette on Nov. 14th, at 2 o'clock, when Mrs. Mayberry will demonstrate how to cook foreign foods.—Reporter.

IN MEMORIAM

A Tribute to Jesse G. Newton
Two very long months ago today Since he so quietly slipped away Into the beautiful Great Beyond, Leaving all friends of whom he was fond.

Leaving his family each so dear To carry on life without him here: He loved this life and was good and true,

Was a friend to all his whole life through.

He loved his church with all of it's work,

His duty there he would never shirk.

He loved his home and family too, Was always cheerful and never blue.

And now he has gone to reap reward

Promised to all in God's holy word.

To those who have been faithful and true

As he with life that was well lived too.

He is waiting on that beautiful shore With his many friends who have gone before.

We miss him here but we'll meet on high,

To part no more, in the Sweet Bye and Bye.

MAYTAG ANNOUNCES

Addition of an automatic type washer, an automatic clothes drier, both gas and electric, and gas range and an electric frozen food locker to the Maytag line of household appliances was revealed to Alamo Lumber Co., Maytag dealer, located at Hondo in a letter received today from President Fred Maytag II.

The announcement followed a series of conferences of Maytag branch managers and distributors held at the home office in Newton at which the new products were previewed. They will be added to the line of conventional type washers and ironers produced by the 50-year old company, which manufactured and sold more than 4,000,000 washers before converting to war production in 1942.

The Maytag Company recently purchased a minority interest in the Globe-American Corporation of Kokomo, Indiana, which will produce Dutch Oven gas ranges exclusively for Maytag. Fred Maytag II, and Maytag Vice Presidents George Umbreit and Roy A. Brandt have been elected to the Globe-American board of directors.

No date has been announced as to when the new products will be made available to the public, although President Maytag expressed an opinion that the gas range and the frozen food locker would be on the market about the first of the year. No date has been revealed when the automatic washers and driers will be ready for distribution.

Samples of postwar models of Maytag conventional type washers have just been released to each of the more than 7,000 dealers representing the company throughout the United States, and the arrival of the local display model is expected soon. An immediate start was made after V-J day on reconversion and assembled machines were stockpiled until enough had accumulated for simultaneous shipment to all dealers.

NEWS STORY

Telephone men are in for a lot of extra headaches with the opening of dove season this fall unless hunters are a little more careful about where they shoot, according to S. F. Bell, District Manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Each year some hunters thoughtlessly shoot up the wires and cable in trying to get a bird flying near telephone lines, Mr. Bell says. And it could be that a few might even be tempted to shoot at birds sitting on the wires; in either case the lines are likely to be damaged and service interrupted.

More trouble of this kind is expected this year because ammunition is expected to be more plentiful, and hunters probably will be more numerous, what with lots of soldier-hunters being home from the wars, and civilians having more time for hunting than in the last several years. Also, the nimrods will have more gasoline to get out and try their marksmanship.

The hunters are reminded that long distance lines are loaded nowadays with more calls than ever before, many of them calls from returning soldiers to the homefolks, or important calls helping to convert plants back to peace-time work. They are urged to "look before they shoot" and to try to avoid shooting through or near wires or cables. Even though the war is over materials to replace damaged lines are hard to get.

Mrs. Emil Barth was a caller at this office Saturday and from her we learned that her brother, Eddie M. Naegelin has returned from the Pacific theater of war with an honorable discharge. Eddie had the misfortune to be wounded in the taking of Okinawa on May 6 last and has spent the time since—up to his discharge—in a hospital. He still carries several fragments of shrapnel in his body and one leg has not fully healed. WILSON-LORFING NUPTIALS
Miss Dolores Lorfin became the bride of Pvt. Roy E. Wilson at a beautiful candlelight service at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church last Saturday evening at 5 o'clock, October 20, 1945. Rev. M. J. Lorfin, father of the bride, performed the marriage rites, assisted by Dr. A. G. Wiederaenders of Texas Lutheran College, a lifelong friend of the family.

The church was decorated in rainbow asters and white mums.
Miss Dorothy Lorfin, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mr. Sam Wilson was best man. Miss Jane Golapp, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. The wedding march was played by Miss Viola Horning.

The bride's gown was of traditional white satin, fashioned with a snug fitted bodice and long sleeves that tapered to a point over each hand. The sheer yoke was delicately edged with satin cording. From the petite waistline folds of the satin fell into a long train. A coronet of seed pearls held secure her veil of bridal illusion. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and tulips.

A reception was held at the parsonage for the relatives immediately following the ceremony. Miss Dorothy Grell, Miss Lanell Wiemers, Miss Sue Wilson and Miss Viola Horning assisted in serving.
The bridegroom is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Wilson of Yancey and lifelong residents of Medina County.

The young couple left for a honeymoon trip to New Mexico.
Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Bruno Goldapp and daughters, Jane and Joyce, of Alice, Texas, Mrs. Julius Cozart and daughter, Ruth, and Mrs. Ed Riehl and daughter, Margaret, all of Alice; Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Wiederaenders and daughter of Seguin.

WEDDING ANNOUNCED
Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Burgin of Hondo announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy, to Mr. H. C. Richards, of Pecos, Oct. 12, 1945, in Corpus Christi, Texas. The ceremony was performed at 9:30 p.m. in the Oak Park Methodist Church, with Rev. H. Ellis Thomas officiating.

The bride, who is employed as a teacher of Distributive Education in the city school system of Corpus Christi, will resign her position there on Nov. 15th. Mr. Richards is Superintendent of the Hondo Independent School District.

Blooming Hats
It took clothes-ration points for an Australian girl to buy a hat. Knowing this, United States soldiers often brought to their dates specially made headpieces of fresh flowers. This custom, started by our troops, became the rage in hat-scarce Australia.

Progressive Century
The barometer and the thermometer were developed in the 17th century.

Heating Safety
One of the most notable innovations in safe heating is the wet base boiler in which water circulates under the ash pit. The fact that the boiler can be placed on a combustible floor is of interest in connection with the trend toward the basement-less house. In such houses it is often desirable to install the boiler on a wooden floor in a utility room or kitchen. Other safety features of modern boilers are foot-treadle door openers, ball-shaped, air-cooled handles and side shakers, making it easier to open and close doors.

Lucky Stones
Emeralds were once believed to be beneficial to the eyes and amethysts were thought to prevent drunkenness, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica. The belief in lucky stones still exists.

Bath Banishes Blues
According to etymologists, the English word "bath" comes indirectly from a Greek word meaning "to drive sadness from the mind." Which goes to prove again that the classic Greeks were a modern people and that they knew the full value of bodily cleansing. Bathe frequently and thoroughly, and thus "drive sadness from the mind."

Plan Baths
If the man of the house has been accustomed to taking his daily shower in the morning, reserve this time for him. The children might bathe in the evening, allotting the time according to their ages and when they go to bed. The younger children might be bathed before dinner, older children later. Plan your own bath for whichever hour will give you the most relaxation.

Eggs Nutritious
Eggs help keep the body healthy. They make strong muscles and red blood. A child needs four to five eggs a week. An older person needs three to five eggs a week. Eggs may be eaten plain, or mixed in other foods.

Whip Soap Flakes
Whip your soap flakes in a little hot water with an egg beater and you will need fewer flakes and get better results.

Red Raskall

By CLARK McMEekin

W.N.U. SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR: While voyaging from England to America, Lark Shannon's ship goes down. She is saved by Galt Withe, a bound servant, but made prisoner at the inn to which he takes her. She escapes, and is found by her sweetheart, David North, who is disguised as a gypsy to get a line on Dr. Matson, a slave pirate. Lark and Galt fall into the hands of Dr. Matson, but escape at night, and after weeks of hardship, arrive in Norfolk where Lark expects to meet David. Finally she meets him at a state fair, but he is with Mara Hastings, who had previously told Lark he was her fiancé. Lark rides Red Raskall, a fine horse she managed to hobble after the shipwreck, and wins the race.

CHAPTER XIX

Lark stood quietly waiting. She had hoped that Matson would not single her out by coming over to speak to them. She felt that people were staring at her curiously as he made his way directly toward the spot where she and Galt were standing. She wished now that she had gone out of the room immediately, for though she was delighted that David had won his case she had no feeling of triumph or revenge.

"Miss Shannon," he bent forward, bowing from the waist, "may I congratulate you?"

"On what, sir?" She laid her hand on Galt's arm and stood erect and poised beside him.

Suddenly, as Matson turned, there was a silver flash like a bird flying through the air. Lark's eyes caught it but, for a stunned second she didn't realize its significance. Then, as Matson doubled over in agony, trying to draw out the knife that was buried, hilt-deep, in the breast of his jacket, realization came to Lark, realization and remembrance.

"Galt," she screamed, "Galt! Galt! Matson's wounded!" Her scream was lost in the general uproar. The judge was down from his desk, bending over the crumpled form, shouting for a barber-surgeon to be summoned. One of the farmers' wives had fainted and had to have a feather burned under her nose. The court room was in pandemonium.

Matson was dead now, past any human help, and the sergeant-at-arms bawled "gangway" and carried the body into the judge's small inner sanctum.

A black-coated preacher in the crowd said, "Lord, have mercy on his soul!" spectators echoed "amen."

"Galt," Lark said, "I've got to get outside, away from all this. I can't stand it. I just can't."

He nodded and took her arm, wedging a passage through the milling, hysterical crowd.

Outside, in the court-house yard, Lark said, "Galt, what do you think we should do? We know it was Mother Egypt who killed Matson. Must we tell the judge that?"

"No," Galt said thoughtfully. "I don't think we ought to tell him. This is the way I look at it, Lark. Matson got what was coming to him. It was fair justice. Remember Dosta. Remember the black-bearded sailor. Remember my father and dozens of others, likely enough, that we don't know about. I look on this as rightful punishment. It's best we just forget it."

"I'll try, if you say so, Galt," Galt said, "I'm hungry, Lark, aren't you?" and led her toward one of the Negro women who called her wares in the soft Gullah speech.

It was then that Lark noticed that the old lady who had spoken to her in the court room was beckoning imperiously from the near-by table where she sat alone.

When Lark hesitated for a moment she saw that a Negro butler was coming toward them with a message. With Chesterfieldian politeness he conveyed his summons. Lark and Galt followed him to his mistress, who nodded with satisfaction and told them to sit down beside her.

"Too bad about that shocking scene in the court room a while ago," she said, "but the man richly deserved his punishment. Of course I saw which gypsy flung the knife, just as you did, and it wouldn't surprise me any if Ben Tavner saw it, too, but he's a wise man, in spite of the fact that he's a judge. I think we'll all just forget it. That's the agreement you two young people came to, isn't it?"

Lark and Galt nodded.

"There's not much my old eyes miss," Madame Farrington boasted, "or my ears, either. You'd be surprised how much gossip I've picked up about the two of you, for instance. My sympathy's with you. It was because of that that I came here today. A little bit, perhaps, it was due to curiosity, too. We Virginians are inordinately interested in anything that concerns a thoroughbred. The whole countryside's been agog these past weeks over Jarrod Terraine's loss of Greatways on that bet. For the horse which would have saved him to turn up now when it's too late seems very unjust and very cruel."

"We tried as hard as we could," she explained quickly, "to return the horse sooner. We knew he belonged to Squire Terraine and we've been trying for weeks to return him."

"Yes," Madame Farrington said, "I believe you. Plascutt Dawes started the ugly rumor that you had heard that Jarrod had lost his place and had been hiding at Matson's rendezvous up the coast until the Terraines left for Kentucky."

"But why then," Lark asked angrily, "should we ever have come here at all? If we wanted to steal the horse, surely this would have been the last place we would have come to?"

"Plascutt says you wanted to hold him up for a huge reward, more than double the value of the horse. There's no telling what lies a man will tell, or what shabby tricks he'll stoop to, when he once makes up his mind that he wants a particular horse."

Galt said frankly, "We were aiming to get the reward, the amount Squire Terraine posted. It seemed fair and right to us."

"Jarrod Terraine would have paid you, too, without any argument," Madame Farrington said with assurance. "But Plascutt Dawes, he's a horse of another color!" The old lady laughed at her joke and the two young people smiled politely.

A vivacious-looking black-haired girl excused herself from the group of fashionable young people who were gathered under a striped marquee and came toward them.

"I want you to know these young friends of mine," Madame Farrington said to her granddaughter. "They've taken pity on a lonely old woman and let her reminisce to her heart's content."

Sherry smiled and held out her hand. "I've heard a lot about you both," she said. "I saw you ride at the Fair. Congratulations!"

"There's the bugle!" — Madame Farrington's voice was eager as a child's. "Give me your arm, young man. Help me up the steps. I don't want to miss a word of this trial. Take me up near the front so I won't miss a single trick!"

When Lark and Galt, deep in conversation with Madame Farrington, entered the court room, Minnie nodded with satisfaction.

"My young proteges got class," she commented to her neighbor whose fried chicken and home-brewed ale she had been sharing. "See they're already been took up by the grandest old lady in the county, wouldn't surprise me none if she axed 'em to lead the next ball she held."

Minnie said, "Hush, now. Things is about to get going," as Judge Tavner rapped with his gavel to quiet the general hubbub. Presently the formalities were completed, and the two lawyers who were to have charge of the case of Dawes versus Shannon and Withe took over.

Plascutt was called on and stated that he considered the thoroughbred horse, Lancer, to be without doubt his property since he was in possession of a document from Jarrod Terraine deeding Greatways and all his property, real and personal, tangible and intangible, enumerated and unenumerated, to him.

Lark's lawyer interrupted to ask if Mr. Dawes had claimed the very clothes on the backs of his old friend, Mr. Terraine, and his daughter, Miss Dana?

"I am a reasonable person," Plascutt stated with an air of offended dignity, "and would not consider forcing such a claim. I allowed the Terraines to keep all small family effects, traveling clothes, a trunk of heirlooms, and certain inherited portraits. I considered that I acted generously as well as justly in this."

A murmur of "for shame" went round the court room and Plascutt, Junior, blushed and shifted uncomfortably in his chair beside his mother who looked straight ahead with her nose in the air.

Minnie said, "Judge, could that document be examined by anybody, me, for instance?"

"Why, yes, I suppose so. It is properly a public exhibit."

Plascutt produced it with some reluctance, and it was handed down the line.

Minnie said, "Squire's writin' looks mighty shaky here, a whole lot shakier than on a piece I've got receiptin' the transfer of a couple of acres from him to me that same week. D'y'e s'pose Mr. Dawes could of made Squire drunk afore he signed this here, Judge Tavner? There was talk goin' round he filled him up afore he provoked him into agreein' to the substitute race."

"Objection!" Plascutt's lawyer yelled.

"Objection sustained," Judge Tavner ruled, with a twinkle in his eye. He knew that Minnie had already made her point with the jury.

Lark was called to the stand next and established the identity of the horse. She told how she had been familiar with him on the boat before the storm and recognized him at once when she had found him in the quicksands on Ghost Island.

She was excused from the stand and Galt took her place. He stated that the horse had left the island with the ponies and returned to it from time to time. He said that he had seen the handbill offering a reward for its capture and return to Squire Terraine, and that he and Lark had, after a good deal of difficulty, managed to secure the horse and to hide him with the eventual plan of taking him to shore and returning him to his owner, Squire Terraine.

"When you found his ownership had changed hands, why did you not give him at once to Mr. Dawes?" Plascutt's lawyer demanded. "You and your companion were clearly evading the law by harboring property which did not belong to you."

"Here, here, now!" Minnie heaved herself to her feet. "Judge, I've got a word or so to add to this case. Anytime a long-nosed, thin-shanked shyster begins to sling mud about Minnie Buxtree's friends—"

"Whether or not these young people happen to be friends of yours has no bearing whatsoever on the case, Miss Buxtree," the judge said severely.

"Don't call me Miss Buxtree," Minnie said serenely, "or I'll think you don't like me. I'm Minnie to my friends and admirers, and there're plenty of them in this here court room."

She let her eyes wander slowly over the room, pausing for a moment on several prominent masculine figures, as the judge, on whom her gaze lingered for an appreciable moment, said hurriedly.

"Well, Minnie, I guess we've all known you for a good many years. You have a reputation for . . ." (he paused for a second to choose his words carefully) "loyalty and good sense. If you choose to take the stand and tell us what you know about this affair, the court will listen to you. You were a passenger aboard the Tempora, I believe, and doubtless befriended the young lady who, I understand, was crossing by herself which is a somewhat unusual procedure."

Minnie swished her silken petticoats through the crowded aisle and hauled herself onto the platform with the greatest of pleasure. It was obvious to the crowd that she was in her element now as the center of attention.

She bowed to Judge Tavner, to the two lawyers, and to the court room in general, settled her flounces and began. "Judge," she said, "Ladies and Gents. I have a word to speak as character witness for this young couple. Galt Withe was named as codefendant. Now what that means I don't know, no more than most of you do; but I don't like the sound of the word. No decent man would want to have it tagged to him, and he's decent, hard-working and self-respecting. You can tell that by the looks of him."

She pointed to Galt who blushed furiously and looked self-conscious and uncomfortable.

"Him, and this gal here, did everything within reason, and beyond it, to return the horse to its rightful owner, and when they found he'd removed himself across the mountains, they carried out his expressed desire in racing the horse against that fish-horse, Thunder Boy."

"Just a moment, Miss Buxtree," Plascutt's lawyer interrupted. "You say 'expressed desire.' Just what do you mean by that term?"

"I mean I heard the first bet talked about and entered into on that old tub of a Tempora," Minnie said with great satisfaction. "I'd gone down to the hold for a bit of a private chat with my feller Dan, and, not finding him there I stayed to hear the argument between the two gents as you would have done yourself. My two ears wuz a-flapping and I heard every word said. Mr. Dawes wuz mad as a hornet and Squire was a-shouting like a bull of Bashan. I could tell you all about that bet if you'd like me to."

"The bet has no bearing on this case," Plascutt was on his feet immediately. "The question the judge asked you, my good woman, was whether or not you had befriended this young woman on the boat. Was she one of your bound girls? Did you connive with her to steal the horse so that she might have money to pay you back for the passage you had advanced to her. I recall seeing her in the horse's stall, chatting familiarly with one of the common grooms. Possibly all of you were working on a plan to steal the horse from Terraine when the boat landed. The storm and shipwreck played into your hands very nicely and presented the opportunity you may have been looking for."

Naval Customs
Coins are often placed under the mast of a ship under construction. One vessel of the United States navy, built within the last ten years, has ten pennies beneath the foremast, and two dimes, three nickels, and 28 pennies beneath the mainmast. All the coins were placed there by her officers while she was being built. The tradition is ancient. One explanation is that it stems from the old Roman custom of burying coins with the dead to pay the fees for "ferrying them across the River Styx."

Refuel 'On the March'
Operating far from bases, our fighting ships must refuel with unfailing regularity. Because the enemy may be watching from sea, air or under the sea, the operation must be carried out while the ship is in motion. The maneuver between a tanker or oiler and a fighting ship is often carried out in heavy seas and requires extremely skillful seamanship on the part of both vessels.

Blueberry Growth
Plant scientists report that blueberries may be grown successfully in home gardens if the soil is naturally acid or is properly treated to make it acid. In ordinary rich soils the plants soon die, but they will grow in soil similar to that where native blueberries and huckleberries, or azaleas, laurels or rhododendrons grow. Blueberries contain good supplies of vitamin C and other nutrients.

Trainman's Lantern
A trainman's lantern in the 1860s was equipped with a strap which fastened about the chest, leaving the conductor's hands free to inspect tickets or signal the engineer.

SNAPPY FACTS about RUBBER

Largest inflatable rubber units ever made (200 ft long and 25 ft high) were the pneumatic breakwaters used to control the waves on the beaches during the Normandy invasion.

The various raw materials used in the manufacture of tires come from 35 different states.

35.7 pounds of synthetic rubber are used up in driving a car 20,000 miles at 35 m. p. h. 61 pounds are used while driving the same number of miles at 50 m. p. h.

Sponge rubber, a century-old discovery, may become a hundred-million-dollar industry.

Return to Elegance Late Trend in Paris

Theme Expressed by Rich Fabrics and Jewels.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

In Paris collections it is apparent that there is a return to elegance in the fashion realm. It appears in endless ways, such as the greater number of evening gowns, some of them trailing. It is sensed also in the many sophisticated black afternoon dresses which are adding an inch to an inch and a half to daytime lengths.

Hips are often accented by embroidery pieces. Corduroy is made up horizontally for the most part. The Spanish note is seen in short boleros richly embroidered and worn with the afternoon gowns. There are many jet and passementerie embroideries. Fringe treatments, self-frayed from the fabric itself, are employed, especially in plaid woollens.

Daytime emphasis is on woolly, often fleecy fabrics, a reaction to prospects of another heatless winter. These wintry fabrics are interesting in that they favor light colors such as gray, pale steel, putty and rose-beige. Small waistlines, rounded hips and drapes, accent on bustlines feminize the new silhouettes.

There is considerable velvet and crepe used for afternoon wear, often richly jet embroidered. Dinner gowns are graceful and slim developed in black velvet with front décolleté and short sleeves. Hand-some failles and rich brocades such as oyster white satins brocaded with large flowers.

Milliners turn to historical backgrounds for inspiration such as reflects in the tiny tricorner of the Louis XV period. These are in velvet or felt. Toques consisting for the most part of an enormous rose posed over one eye after the manner of the roses worn in Fragonard paintings. Wide flat shapes are also endorsed, worn just showing the hair on the forehead. These are of fabric-draped felt and are in direct contrast to the beautifully draped imposing tall turbans shown, some of which are dramatically jewel-embroidered.

New Skirt Drape

This Gothe original takes the new front full skirt drape and artfully places it so as to slim the figure, with fullness flowing below a smooth torso and hipline. The drape influence repeats at the neck, skillfully handled to achieve a becomingly soft sweetheart line. This "little black dress" with its dramatic splash of flower color at the waist is designed for important occasions. The hat by Chanda tunes perfectly to the costume mood.

Fads and Fancies

For the "new look" in suits and dresses, it's wing sleeves, rounded shoulders and deep armholes that say it.

The newest thing in fur accessories is detachable wide cuffs made of the same fur as the hat. When the hands are brought together, the cuffs form a muff. Being detachable, these cuffs can be worn with a suit, coat or dress.

No longer will milady have to grope in the dark for the various belongings she carries in her handbag. A little tubular flashlight to clip horizontally to the inside pocket of her handbag has been devised that will reveal the contents clear as day.

Color and novelty are expressed in most attractive looking gloves made of sturdy, durable, and wear-resistant corduroy. These attractive gloves are available in charming colors including the new shrimp shade, a soft blue and in tan or gray.

Iron Across Length
When ironing, press with the length rather than across the width of fabric wherever possible. But if a skirt, slip or nightgown is cut on the bias, then iron on a slant, along the grain or straight of the material. This will prevent the stretching and sagging which makes hems uneven.

Keeps Mouth Shut
The reason a dog has so many friends is that his tail wags instead of his tongue.

MRS. ALLEN'S HUSBAND GIVES HER A SURPRISE

WEST MONROE, LA.—Mrs. Carl C. Allen of West Monroe, Louisiana, has an interesting story to tell about how she discovered Faultless Starch. Here is what she wrote:

"Last week, my husband brought home a box of Faultless Starch. I decided to use it, thinking that all starches were about the same. You can imagine my surprise when I began ironing. My iron fairly flew and I was finished in no time. My clothes were so bright, with no rough starch blotches to mar their sleekness. I felt I just had to tell you how wonderful your starch is. My husband was just as proud as I when he saw his shirts. I wish all women could just try your product."

Now there is a thoughtful husband. That box of Faultless Starch really meant more to Mrs. Allen than a box of candy—and here is why:

SAVE 468 MINUTES A YEAR

Let's say it takes ten minutes to make hot starch when you have to cook it and stir it over a hot stove. But you can make hot Faultless Starch in a minute. That means you save nine minutes each time you make it. If you wash only once a week, in one year you would save 468 minutes, or seven hours and forty minutes. Would you rather have a box of candy or a box of starch that saved you better than seven hours a year?

SAVE 26 HOURS A YEAR

And that isn't all! Many people tell us that Faultless Starch makes it possible to save half their ironing time. Let's be conservative and say that Faultless Starch might save you half an hour each ironing day. In a year you would save twenty-six hours of hard ironing time! Which is best—a box of candy or a box of Faultless Starch?

Why go on starching and ironing the hard way when you can do it the easy way with Faultless Starch. Or, better still, ask your grocer for a box today. You deserve Faultless Starch, too.—Adv.

Vaccination Will Reduce Poultry Pox

Mosquito Control by DDT Also Recommended

Mosquitoes have been determined as a factor in the transmission of fowl pox. It has also been found that the mosquito along with the fly can now be largely eliminated from poultry houses by the application of the miracle spray, DDT.

This is not the only answer to fowl pox control. Vaccination often becomes essential. Poultrymen who have failed to protect their birds by vaccination should make plans at once. It is believed that fowl pox will be rather common this winter unless proper preventive measures are taken.

When pigeon pox is used for poultry, it is necessary to use the brush method of application and inoculate at least 25 to 30 feather follicles. The feathers are pulled under the wing and the vaccine applied by a small brush. Full instructions accompany each package of virus. Of great importance is the necessity of liberal dosage to develop adequate immunity. Unlike fowl pox virus, the pigeon type is not followed by severe reaction and can therefore be freely applied.

When the essentials of good vaccination procedure are met, Rutgers university reports that the immunity that birds acquire appears to be satisfactory.

Pigs Fed Coal Give Good Growth Record

These pigs have been fed bituminous coal all their lives, without any apparent setbacks. It seems that the hogs like the mineral content. No evidence has been found that indicates the value of coal feeding, although it has been practiced in some coal producing regions to some extent.

Brucellosis Control

Indiscriminate vaccination will not stamp out brucellosis (bang's disease). Systematic vaccination, testing and gradual elimination and proper sanitary measures, must all be resorted to in order to control the disease which is now causing tremendous loss among dairy farmers.

Raw milk from all reactors, vaccinated or not, represents a degree of danger to man. Swine brucellosis is also on the increase.

Cotton Damage
Most of the ginning damage to cotton occurs during the first three to four weeks of the ginning season. The cotton is "green" and damp because of the high moisture content of the seed.

Cotton Pickers
The leaves of the cotton must be removed by chemicals in order for picking machines to do the best jobs. Cotton is easily stained by green leaves and this makes dyeing of the cotton difficult.

Garden Superstition
As late as 1740, people in New England thought potatoes would shorten men's lives and make them unhealthy.

Towel Laundering
Increased use of towels means more frequent laundering. Hang towels straight on the line rather than by a corner. After using bath towels, spread them out on racks to dry instead of folding or bunching them. Never pile wet towels on the floor or in a laundry bag. Soggy towels can mildew overnight in hot weather.

ing must remain on active duty until June 30, 1947, or for the duration of the emergency and six months whichever date occurs sooner.

AAF headquarters pointed out that those choosing discharge must await their turn for separation and that in many cases their actual release may not come for several weeks.

COMETS MEET AMARILLO IN HONDO NEXT FRIDAY

Hondo Field's Comets ran into a flock of trouble this week as several topflight players were either benched by injuries or discharged, but the team plugged away in preparation for the Sunday grid tilt in Houston Oct. 28 with the strong Ellington Field Flyers and the home clash with the Amarillo AAF eleven next Friday night at 8 o'clock in Barry stadium. All seats will be reserve seats for the Comets' third home clash.

Greatest blow to the Comets is the temporary loss of lanky Otto Schnellbacher, brilliant pass receiver who suffered a broken hand in last week's game with Fort Warren at Omaha. Schnellbacher will be replaced at right end for the Ellington tilt by Lyle Earney, shifted from a backfield position to end by Coach Bob Coe in an effort to plug a key spot in the Comets' offense.

Still holding down left end is Paul Hagan, hard-charging former Oklahoma A. & M. end who, together with Schnellbacher and field general Ivan Cunningham, came close to upsetting mighty Fort Warren in the 28-26 battle royal last week-end. The Comets achieved a morale victory, however, in the knowledge that they chalked up four touchdowns against a powerful Bronco line which held vaunted Minnesota to two touchdowns the preceding week.

Also lost to the Comet squad is Al Goot, who broke his leg in the Fort Warren game. Goot was the Comets' chief extra-point kicker.

Big Bill Huston, a backfield ace, also may be on the bench.

The Comets still have enough offensive versatility in Halfbacks Cunningham, Sam Laskin and Huston; Fullbacks Maurice Carmody and Campbell McKellar, and Quarterbacks Stan Alberchinski and Dick Bushnell to give the Ellington Flyers a dangerous running game.

Coe has lost the services of giant 270-pound tackle John Rabold via the discharge route, as well as first string Fullback George Boner and second string Halfback Dana Hanson, but several newcomers to the squad are being counted on to plug up these holes. In Tackle Frank Hollendener, former Notre Dame lineman and the dependable lineman Rollins, and Backs Walter Piotkowski and John Cadenhead (Alabama), the Comets have acquired four grid-wise performers who will considerably bolster their strength.

The Comet attack rotates about triple-threat Cunningham, former team captain of the SMU Mustangs, who will still have two years of college eligibility upon his release from service. Comet followers are booming Cunningham for All-Service honors in the current season in recognition of his superb leadership and ability shown. Also being boosted just as much is Schnellbacher, former Kansas U. honorable mention All-American, who is a brilliant Comet pass-snatcher and tackler.

The Hondo-Ellington game will settle a 7-7 tie game played by the two AAF clubs Sept. 16 and the Comets plan to sharpen their teeth on the Flyers for the next Friday game here with Amarillo.

NEW INDUCEMENTS GIVEN FOR RE-ENLISTING

With the additional attractive inducements for re-enlisting in the regular Army, more Hondo Field men are signing up for another "hitch." A nation-wide picture shows men are re-enlisting at the rate of 1,000 a day. In two weeks 18,000 were recruited.

More than 60,000 are now on the HAAF list indicating the desire for re-enlisting, according to Capt. A. B. Shattuck, Military Personnel officer. An addition two dozen more are expected to follow suit in a few days.

One of the latest inducements for men to re-enlist is a re-enlistment furlough travel allowance. An allowance of 5 cents per mile will be paid re-enlistees leaving on their 90 day furloughs. For three-year enlistments, men may choose the station of their preference for initial assignment as well as branch of service.

One of the greatest attractions is permitting men to keep as permanent rank the grade they last held in the Army of the United States, whether it was temporary or permanent.

The Army will accept enlistments for any one of four periods—one year, 18 months, two years or three years. However, only those who enlist for three will be given the option of branch of service or choice of theater. One-year enlistments are limited to those who are in service and who have completed at least six months' service.

Length of re-enlistment furloughs up to 90 days will be given on the basis of time served in the AUS. A re-enlistee receives mustering out pay. Bonuses of $50 per year's service will be given all grades.

Any man not under 17 and who has not reached his 35th birthday and who is physically qualified, can be considered for enlistment.

THE RIGHT TRACTOR FOR THE PARTICULAR JOB

THE proverbial Jack-of-all-trades was master of none. The modern world of science and technology passed him by.

The same principle applies to farm tractors. The tractor that does a wide variety of jobs unsatisfactorily can't possibly produce the greatest results at the least cost in any job.

But that's what the farmer—particularly the small operator—has got to do to meet postwar competition: he's got to produce the most food possible with the least effort and, consequently, at the lowest cost.

The farmer with 10 acres in truck crops needs one kind of tractor. The farmer with 100 acres in wheat alone needs another kind—or, as is usually the case, two or more different tractors. The tractor which does a good job on the Great Plains may be useless in the rice territory. And so it goes.

Conditions of climate, the lay of the land, and the character of soils in the different parts of this vast country, together with wide variations in the nature of crops and the size of operations, combine to produce wide differences in the requirements for tractors. Harvester's policy is to meet all these requirements.

That is why Harvester's postwar line includes a great variety of Farmalls and other specialized tractors and attachments rather than a single tractor with a single system of tools. Every tractor in the line was developed after scientific research and testing under actual operating conditions showed the specifications needed for efficiency and economy.

Every Harvester-built tractor is the right machine for its particular job.
